The Killer Hooks

The ’80s to Today Live Music Video Dance Party

When video killed the Radio Star

About

The Killer Hooks bring the biggest hits from the ’80s to today to the stage as a live music video dance party. Four musicians perform the songs live while synchronized original artist music videos add a distinctive visual layer to the show.

Music Time Vault is a fully produced, 90-minute theatrical concert experience celebrating the songs, videos, and pop culture of the MTV era. The format combines live performance, nostalgic visuals, and sing-alongs for a focused concert presentation.

For an all-’80s event, The ’80s Were Crazy delivers a throwback dance party built around the decade’s music, visuals, and style. Both the all-’80s show and the ’80s-to-Today format are available for festivals, casinos, theatres, corporate events, and private celebrations.

The Killer Hooks offer a clear fit for buyers looking for familiar music with a synchronized video presentation, whether the event calls for a 90-minute theatrical concert or a live dance-party format.
