The Company Men

About

The Company Men are a mashup-based cover band from Whittier, California, built around Timeless Music from the Past Six Decades Mashed With Today's Hits. The group combines songs across Motown, rock, pop, and today's Top 40, with examples that include the Four Tops with Michael Jackson, The Temptations with Katy Perry and The Police, and Frankie Lymon & The Teenagers with Bruno Mars and Beyoncé. Their song list also includes artists such as The Righteous Brothers, Ben E. King, Michael Bublé, and Maroon 5.

The act is made up of Daniel Tatar, Shawn Perucca, Stuart Ambrose, and Brian Purcell. They present the show with coordinated choreography, tailored suits, and a polished, old-school visual style that connects the group's "Modern Day Rat Pack" identity to a contemporary set format. The overall feel pairs familiar catalog songs from multiple decades with current hits, arranged as mashups for a multi-generational crowd.

The Company Men have shared the stage with Natalie Cole, Chaka Khan, Jesse Campbell of The Voice, and LaToya London of American Idol. They have also performed for Quincy Jones and Berry Gordy, and have been featured nationwide in television, radio, magazine, and online coverage.

Performance history in the source material includes a recurring residency at the Key Club in Hollywood, an appearance at the 2013 Red Dress Awards at Jazz at Lincoln Center, and headlining concerts at casinos across the U.S. The group began after the four members decided in April 2011, during a conversation at a Las Vegas casino, to leave their 9-to-5 work and start the act together.

That background remains part of the group's identity. Shawn worked for "the mouse," Daniel balanced website construction with being a stay-at-home dad, Brian worked for his family's executive search firm, and Stuart served in the U.S. Coast Guard. The name and presentation reflect that shift from day jobs into a full performance project rooted in classic songs, current hits, and a clean, coordinated stage show.
