The Rhythm Shakers

The Rhythm Shakers

About

The Rhythm Shakers play late-1950s rock and roll with a modern edge. At the center is front woman Marlene Perez, whose ripping wails and howling vocals lean closer to Tina Turner and Amy Winehouse than to the echo-dripped hiccups often associated with 1950s rock and roll.

The band has performed internationally, with festival appearances including Sjock Festival in Belgium, High Rockabilly in Spain, The Rockabilly Rave in the UK, and Viva Las Vegas. They have also worked with pop artists including Sam Sparro, Moneybrother, and Nick Waterhouse.

Their releases include Flipsville, Voodoo, and Panic, described as genre-defining albums in the source material. For buyers, the pitch is clear: a specialty act rooted in vintage rock and roll, led by a distinct vocal presence, with proven festival experience across the US and Europe.
